President's Report

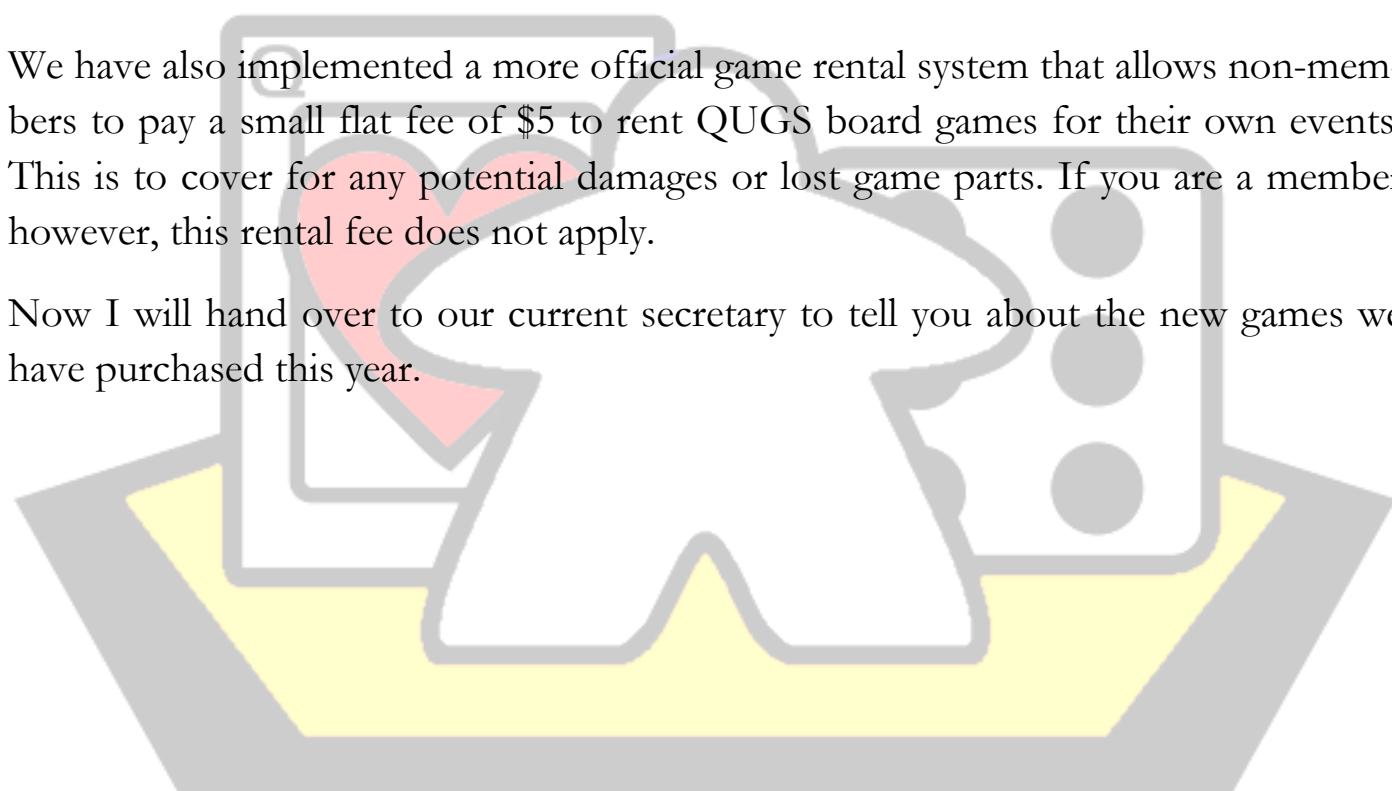

Lee Phillips

Good morning everyone, it has been another successful year for QUGS. There is not much that needs to be covered so I'll just get through with it as quick as I can.

We made an addition to our membership card at the start of this year. The card now can get you a free game token with every drink purchased at Netherworld gaming lounge. This is in addition to the 10% discount at Presents of Mind stores found around Brisbane.

We have also implemented a more official game rental system that allows non-members to pay a small flat fee of $5 to rent QUGS board games for their own events. This is to cover for any potential damages or lost game parts. If you are a member however, this rental fee does not apply.

Now I will hand over to our current secretary to tell you about the new games we have purchased this year.

Secretary's Report

Bradley Stone

In 2017, QUGS has 124 financial members, up by 12 from last year.

The society purchased six games in 2017, in April and August. Four of the games were chosen by the executive, and two were chosen by a vote open to all members.

Splendor, chosen by the executive, has seen frequent use, especially early during the weekly meetings, as it is a relatively simple, short game, perfect to play while waiting for more members to show up.

Libertalia, chosen by the executive, has seen less play than desired.

Sheriff of Nottingham, chosen by vote, has seen about the same play as the average game in the society's inventory.

Secret Hitler, chosen by the executive, was the other leader in the first vote. It has seen a decent amount of use, filling the 6+ player niche for the society.

Tokaido, chosen by the executive, has also seen about the same play as the average game in the society's inventory.

Fury of Dracula, chosen by vote, is popular, and allows one experienced player compete against four less experienced players.

Treasure's Report

Rob Copel

Good evening everyone,

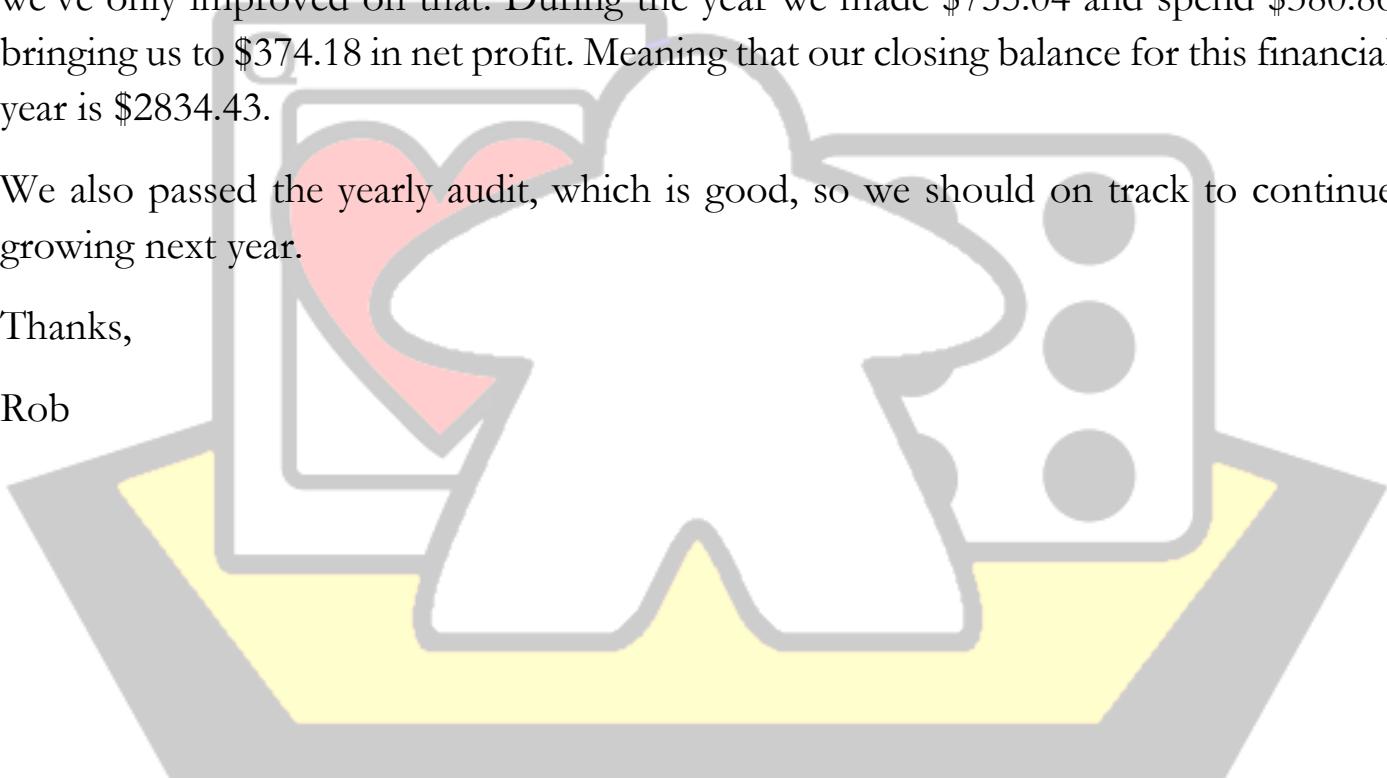

I'm just going to provide a quick summary of how QUGS has tracked financially over the past year along with how we did in the audit and how we are looking for next year.

We started this year in great financial health with almost $2500.00 in the bank and we've only improved on that. During the year we made $755.04 and spend $380.86 bringing us to $374.18 in net profit. Meaning that our closing balance for this financial year is $2834.43.

We also passed the yearly audit, which is good, so we should on track to continue growing next year.

Thanks,

Rob

Election of the 2018 Executive

The method used:

President Election

Candidate	Nominator	Seconder	Votes
Lee Phillips	Bradley Stone	Simon Brown

Treasurer Election

Candidate	Nominator	Seconder	Votes
Bradley Stone	Lce Phillips	Chris Greener

Secretary Election

The figure is a line graph illustrating the distribution of votes for three candidates: Candidate, Nominator, and Seconder. The vertical axis represents the percentage of votes, with major tick marks at 0%, 50%, and 100%. The horizontal axis represents the cumulative percentage of votes cast, also with major tick marks at 0%, 50%, and 100%. Three data series are plotted as smooth, dark grey curves:

- Candidate: The top curve, which rises most steeply initially and then levels off, indicating a high concentration of early votes.
- Nominator: The middle curve, which follows a similar initial trajectory but remains slightly below the Candidate curve, suggesting a slightly lower initial concentration of votes.
- Seconder: The bottom curve, which shows a more gradual and linear increase, indicating a more evenly distributed or slower accumulation of votes.

All three curves reach approximately 100% of the votes cast, with the Candidate curve reaching its peak slightly earlier than the others.

Returning Officer: Joel Fenwick

Lee Phillips was elected to President unopposed.

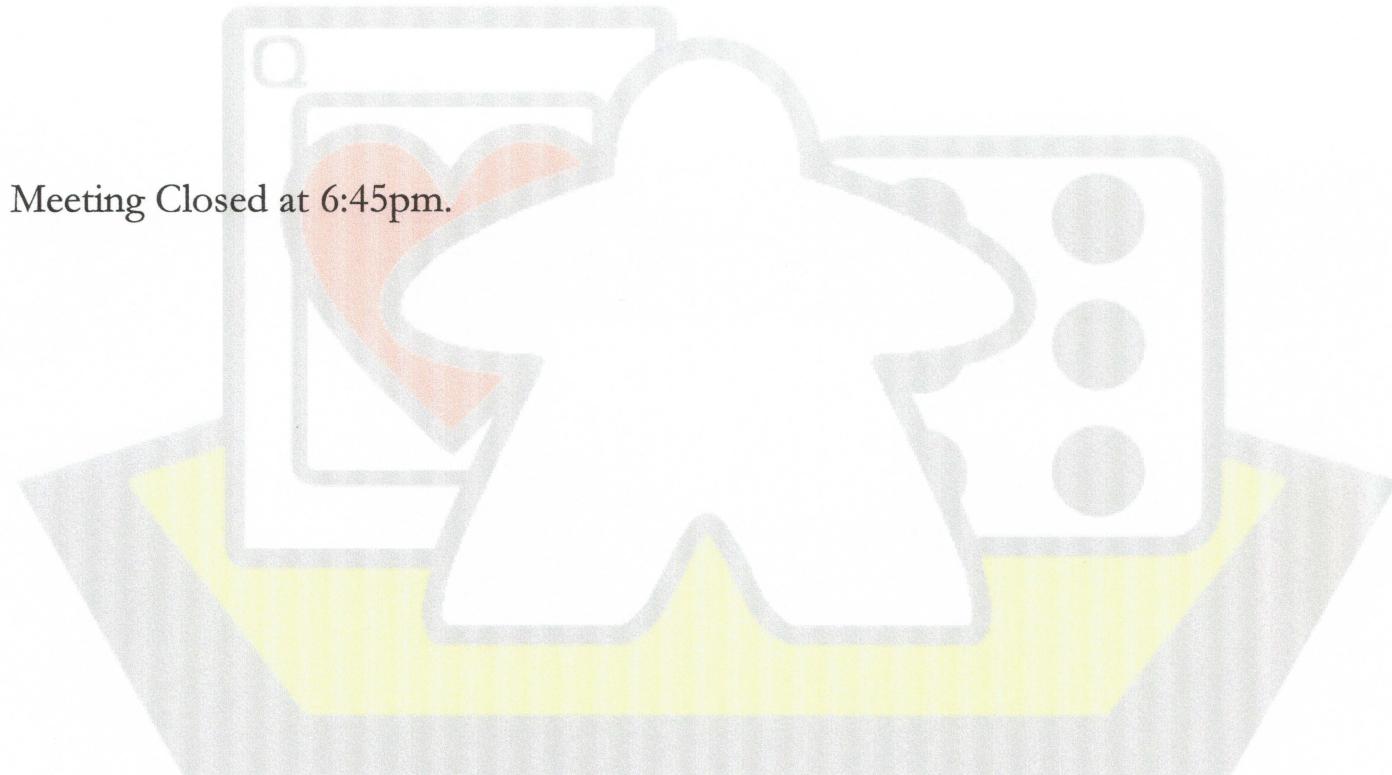

Bradley Stone was elected to Treasurer unopposed.

No nominations were received for Secretary, and thus the position became a casual vacancy.

Lee Phillips resumed presiding.
